

◆ VIOLENCIA DOMESTICA
REFUGIOS Y RECURSOS

Si usted es víctima de la violencia doméstica, este es el momento de ponerse a pensar como protegerse a sí mismo y aquellos que cuenten consu seguridad. Las personas que cometen el abuso tratan de controlar a sus víctimas a través del temor. Lo hacen por medio de frecuentes golpizas, y abuso sexual, sicológico y económico.

La violencia doméstica se define como abuso competido contra un cónyuge, ex-cónyuge, cohabitante, o contra la persona con la cual el sospechoso ha tenido himos, o mantiene o ha mantenido una relación de novilazgo o de estar comprometidos.

Existen recursos disponibles de ayuda para usted, refugios seguros y consejería en momentos de crisis, de manera confidencial y gratis por teléfono. Llame a las líneas telefónicas de emergencia en este folleto.

No deje de llamar a la policía para pedir ayuda.

◆ VINE
Información y Notificación Diaria a Víctimas

VINE es un programa telefónico gratuito y anónimo. VINE le hará saber rápidamente si el recluso aun se encuentra en custodia y el lugar donde se encuentra en custodia. Las víctimas de violencia doméstica y de crímenes donde hubo violencia involucrada, así como de otros crímenes, puedan usar el servicio para información y notificación.

Llame a VINE al 1-877-846-3452 y siga las indicaciones. No sea el último en saber cuando un “abusador” sale de la cárcel.

INFORMACION

Para obtener información sobre la custodia de un recluso, llame al 1-877-846-3452 y siga las indicaciones. La persona que llame empleará información básica para tener acceso a la base de datos de VINE. Las víctimas pueden llamar a VINE desde cualquier teléfono de botones, en cualquier momento, para verificar el estado de la custodia de un recluso.

NOTIFICACION

Quien llame podrá entonces tener la opción de registrarse para obtener una llamada de notificación automatizada cuando un recluso sea liberado o transferido. Para registrarse, solo necesitará ingresar el Número de Identificación Personal (PIN) a ser usado durante la notificación. El servicio llamará automáticamente en cualquiera de las situaciones mencionadas anteriormente.

LOS ANGELES
POLICE DEPARTMENT

There is no excuse for...
DOMESTIC VIOLENCE

You have the right to be safe! You are not alone. Help is available in your community. Our main concern is your safety.

Domestic violence is defined as abuse committed against a spouse, cohabitant, former cohabitant, or a person with whom the victim has had a child, or is having or has had a dating or engagement relationship.

Domestic violence may begin with angry words, a shove, or a slap. It may escalate into a pattern of assaults and controlling behavior including physical, sexual and psychological attacks against the victim, children, property, and/or pets.

Research has shown that this pattern of control and abuse increases in frequency and severity over time. Studies have shown that arrest, jail, probation, and Restraining Orders deter many abusers from physically abusing their partners.

◆ CRIMINAL PROCEEDINGS

Domestic violence is a crime. Criminal domestic violence behaviors may include hitting, choking, kicking, assault with a weapon, shoving, scratching, biting, raping, unwanted sexual touching, forcing sex with another person, or violation of a valid Restraining Order. However, insults, questioning family members, suicide threats/attempts, and controlling a victim’s time and activities, although not criminal, are also considered domestic abuse.

Once the police are called, they will interview all persons involved, arrest the batterer when possible and write a report. A detective or a prosecutor will call you to ask further questions. We encourage you to be honest with the investigator. Let him or her know about past domestic violence incidents and any details you may have forgotten to tell the officer initially. The report may be sent to the City Attorney’s office (misdemeanors) or to the District Attorney’s office (felonies). If the prosecutor feels there is enough evidence, the case will be filed.

Note: The victim also has the option of contacting the detective, the City Attorney or the District Attorney and requesting that a criminal complaint be filed.

Remember that further threats, Restraining Order violations, or acts of violence are crimes and should be reported to the police and the prosecutor. Save tapes, voice messages, cards, letters and any other evidence for the detective or prosecutor, or for a restraining order hearing or child custody proceedings.

The victim becomes a witness for the State and, unlike civil court, cannot decide whether or not to prosecute or “press charges.” This means that the State may prosecute even when the victim does not want to prosecute. This policy is in effect so that a batterer will learn that coercing or scaring a victim into requesting that charges be dropped is not an effective means of avoiding criminal prosecution.

Studies have shown that the best protection for a survivor of domestic abuse is in many cases through court intervention.

SEXUAL ASSAULT VICTIMS

A sexual assault may be by a stranger or a person known to the victim, including a husband, boyfriend, ex-husband, or ex-boyfriend. Sexual assault is a crime. Victims should notify the police immediately.

A police officer will respond to take a report and collect evidence. Victims should keep all clothing worn during the assault and other evidence such as bed sheets. Officers will transport victims to the hospital for a medical exam to preserve evidence. Victims should not shower or douche before the exam.

◆ SAFETY

Contacting the police is one way you can protect yourself from further abuse. You may already have a way to provide safety for you and your children such as:

- An Emergency Protective Order (EPO) issued by the Police at the time of a domestic violence incident;
- A Domestic Violence Restraining Order (DVRO) granted at your request by a judge which may prohibit the abuser from calling you, contacting you or coming near you;
- A Criminal Protective Order issued by the criminal court which may prohibit the abuser from calling you, contacting you or coming near you.

This also means the abuser may not call you from jail. If the abuser calls you in violation of the Restraining Order, call the police station and make a police report. Ask that phone privileges from jail be removed. The police can contact the court for you to ask the court to prohibit the abuser from using the phone. To find which jail the abuser is in, there is a special program called VINE (see next page.)

THE FOLLOWING SAFETY PLANNING TIPS SHOULD BE CONSIDERED

- Keep emergency and hotline numbers accessible.
- Contact local shelters and discuss safe ways to leave and places for you and your children to go.
- Keep an extra set of house and car keys hidden in a safe, quickly accessible place.
- Put the following things together in one place where you can access them quickly: identification, money, checkbook, credit cards, medications, legal papers, change of clothing, address books, immigration papers, child custody orders, and anything which could not be easily duplicated.
- Develop plans to contact police or find a temporary hiding place with a trustworthy friend.
- If time allows: Consider moving furniture into storage, hiding or destroying weapons. Leave food for your pets or discuss the boarding of your pets with the hotline counselor.
- Hide or destroy anything that might give a clue as to where you are going. DO NOT LEAVE A NOTE!

Note: If moving affects a minor child, seek the advice of the Police, a private attorney or the District Attorney Child Abduction Unit (213-974-7424) regarding child abduction laws.

Once a criminal case is filed, a victim should contact the District Attorney’s Office, City Attorney’s office, Detective, or a victim advocate to be updated on the status of the case.

Be aware that even if an arrest is made or the offender is in custody, that person may be released at any time. Use the VINE system for release information.

◆ VINE

Victim Information & Notification Everyday

VINE is a free, anonymous, telephone service offered to victims of violent crimes and community members in Los Angeles and Los Angeles County. By calling the VINE number, you can determine the custody status of the offender and register to be notified of the release or transfer of the specific inmate. For inmate custody information, call:

1-877-VINE-4-LA or 1-877-846-3452

After dialing the VINE number, follow the instructions given by the system. Vine will quickly tell you if the inmate is still in custody and provide custody location. You may call VINE from any touch-tone telephone, any time 24 hours a day, to check on an inmate’s custody status.

You may also choose to register for an automated notification call when an inmate is released or transferred. You will be asked to give a telephone number, including area code, where you want to be reached and a four-digit Personal Identification Number (PIN) for use during notification. If you do not have a telephone you may use the telephone number of a relative or friend. Do not use a telephone number that reaches a switchboard.

The VINE system monitors inmate activity in the Los Angeles County Jail System. When an inmate is transferred or released, VINE will automatically react to contact the properly registered persons. Do not be startled if you receive a call from VINE in the middle of the night. VINE will begin calling as soon as new information regarding an inmate is received.

Do not lose your PIN number. Entering the correct PIN number is the only way to stop VINE notification calls.

Please record the following information before calling VINE:

INMATE NAME (correct spelling)

INMATE BOOKING NUMBER (Call police for the number)

YOUR FOUR-DIGIT PIN CODE

Note: A victim should NOT depend on the VINE system for safety. If threatened, make yourself as safe as possible as though the inmate were already released.

◆ RESTRAINING ORDERS

You can request a Domestic Violence Restraining Order against the person who hurt or threatened you or other family members by appearing at the Superior court located nearest to you. A Restraining Order may be requested whether or not an arrest has been made or the police have been called. An order may be obtained to:

- Restrain the attacker from abusing you and other family members;
- Direct the attacker to leave the household;
- Prevent the attacker from entering the residence, school, business, or place of employment of the victim;
- Award the victim or other parent custody of, or visitation with, a minor child or children;
- Restrain the attacker from molesting or interfering with minor children in the custody of the victim;
- Direct a parent not granted custody to pay child support;
- Direct the defendant to pay certain bills coming due while the order is in effect;
- Direct the batterer or the victim or both to attend counseling.

A Domestic Violence Restraining Order is always free. In many courts Restraining Order Clinics will fill out the forms with you.

Obtaining a Restraining Order is a two-step process.

STEP #1:

Request a Temporary Restraining Order (TRO) at the Superior Court.

Note: Emergency Protection Orders are available through the Police Department on a 24 hour basis, and are valid for only 5 court days.

- Your TRO should be granted the same or next day.
- Serve the defendant with a copy of the TRO. Anyone over 18 years of age, except you can hand the Order to the defendant.
- Deliver a copy of the TRO, and Proof of Service form to your local police station. Retain the originals of all documents.

STEP #2:

To obtain an order that is valid for 3 years you must return to court on the date the hearing is set. Bring your TRO documents with you, especially the proof of service form. The new order must also be served to the defendant and copies delivered to the police station.

The victims also has a right to file a civil suit for losses suffered as a result of the abuse, including medical expenses, loss of earnings, other expenses for injuries sustained, damage to property, and any other related expenses incurred by the victim or any agency that shelters the victim.

APALC provides direct legal services to low-income immigrant clients who are victims of domestic violence. Our focus is on the low-income, monolingual immigrant communities. Our services include helping victims apply for restraining orders, file for divorce or otherwise assist in child custody and child visitation issues. Since many immigrant victims of domestic violence also have immigration problems, APALC assists qualifying clients apply for legal status through such remedies as the Violence Against Women Act (VAWA), the Immigration and Marriage Fraud Act (IMFA) and the U-Visa for victims of crime. Additionally, APALC provides domestic violence trainings to community based organizations and produces materials to raise awareness and prevention on this important issue.

APALC provides direct legal services to low-income immigrant clients who are victims of domestic violence. Our focus is on the low-income, monolingual immigrant communities. Our services include helping victims apply for restraining orders, file for divorce or otherwise assist in child custody and child visitation issues. Since many immigrant victims of domestic violence also have immigration problems, APALC assists qualifying clients apply for legal status through such remedies as the Violence Against Women Act (VAWA), the Immigration and Marriage Fraud Act (IMFA) and the U-Visa for victims of crime. Additionally, APALC provides domestic violence trainings to community based organizations and produces materials to raise awareness and prevention on this important issue.

We offer our at-risk young people, positive youth development programs, sports, community activities, resources, counseling and mentorship to strengthen the values and motivate the moral fiber that our young people are lacking. We believe it is our obligation, to offer alternatives to our youth and gang problems while providing realistic and vigorously proactive solutions to the gang terrorism our community is suffering from.

Youth Services: First offender youth ages 13-17, as well as those on probation receive individual, family and group counseling and perform community service; while their parents receive parenting education. New Beginnings: After care services including counseling, community service, parenting education and referrals are provided to serious offender youth who have been released from incarceration, as well as to their families. Family Revitalization: Through this project, vital in-home services are provided to families with children from birth to five years of age, in order to prevent child abuse and neglect. Road to Success: At risk youth participate in counseling, academic enrichment, conflict resolution workshops, computer training, employment readiness and life skills development in an after school program.

Southeast Jeopardy Program

(213) 972-7964

The Jeopardy Program is a gang prevention and intervention program. The program is designed for boys and girls between the ages of eight and 17 and their parents. The Jeopardy Program uses a positive approach to help children "at risk" of being involved in gang or criminal activity. These children realize they do not have to believe the myth that they must join a gang to survive in their neighborhoods. The program includes referrals to local community counseling services, monthly family seminars and positive alternatives to gang membership. The program provides "at-risk" youth with the opportunity to develop self-esteem, discipline and the ability to set long and short term goals. The program also helps to improve academic performance, eliminate truancy and increase the self esteem and the self-confidence of the participants.
